MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

SUBJECT: Telephone Call to Prime Minister Ruud Lubbers
of the Netherlands (U)

PARTICIPANTS: The President
Ruud Lubbers, Prime Minister
Robert Hutchings, NSC Staff (Notetaker)

DATE, TIME April 17, 1990, 4:20 - 4:32 p.m. EST
AND PLACE: The Oval Office

The President initiated the call in response to a request from Prime Minister Lubbers. (U)

The President: Hello, Ruud! How are you? (U)

Prime Minister Lubbers: Good. This is an easy-going country, as you know. Things are going quite all right. Of course, there are a number of problems in Europe. The Lithuanian situation is very difficult. (U)

The President: What is your public position? (U)

Prime Minister Lubbers: To keep quiet. This is also for formal reasons. When we recognized the USSR, we recognized the Baltic republics as part of it. The political realities are a different matter, of course, but we don't want to make life for Gorbachev more difficult than it already is. (U)

The President: We are in a difficult position. There is pressure for the U.S. to take leadership. (U)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I hope the Polish Government will do something. For historical reasons, and also the Church, the Poles are better placed than we. Our involvement could be seen as interference. But we may need to do something -- perhaps together. You will be seeing Mitterrand. Will you discuss this? (U)

The President: Yes. We have lots to discuss, but I will take it up with him. (U)

Prime Minister Lubbers: Maybe we could try to combine your position with a European stand. (U)

The President: I don't know how much time we have. Have you seen this latest thing -- cutting off gas supplies? We thought this morning that we would have talks going, but it doesn't look so good now. I don't want to do anything rash. We have a big agenda and want this man to succeed, but given our historical background, we have to say something. (Ø)

Prime Minister Lubbers: We should do something, too, to spread the responsibility. (U)

The President: I will talk with my experts. We have a meeting in about 30 minutes. (U)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I hope they will start talks -- in the UN, perhaps. (Ø)

The President: Cuellar said today that it is an "internal matter." That will please them in Moscow, although not in some other places. What else do you have for me? (Ø)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I am glad the European Bank is going. We have a Dutch candidate, Onno Ruding. The French have also proposed Attali. (Ø)

The President: Ruding's a good man. (Ø)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I talked to Mitterrand. He said it was hard for him not to support the candidacy of Attali, because they are so close, but he said he hates the situation in which there are so many French in high positions in international institutions. He personally likes Ruding but must support his own man. He proposed an arrangement whereby Ruding would serve for some years under Attali and then succeed him. I looked into the statutes of the Bank. There would be a Governing Board to elect its own President. It could offer Attali the post for some years, so that he could be the founder, but then turn it over so that the Bank wouldn't have someone with no banking experience. I suggested to the French that they think it over. I have had no reaction from Mitterrand yet. As long as it is clear that many countries support Ruding, they might consider this arrangement. But if big countries support the French, they might not. I wrote you a letter on this, which you will receive tomorrow. (Ø)

The President: I appreciate your views. Everybody feels Ruding is an excellent candidate. Our problem is that Treasury may have already committed to Attali. But if something is working, we will try to stay flexible. Attali has no banking experience at all. (Ø)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I don't think Treasury has committed. Kohl likes Ruding; so does Thatcher. I'm not so pessimistic. You know the French like to say that other countries have supported their position. (Ø)

CONFIDENTIAL

The President: I am glad to know that others are for Ruding. Mrs. Thatcher is fixed on London as the site for the Bank. (✓)

Prime Minister Lubbers: She wrote to me supporting Ruding. (✓)

The President: That is interesting. I didn't know. We will share this with Brady and Baker. If no commitment has been made, I will make sure I get a recommendation. If I can get Mitterrand off alone, I will discuss it with him. I hope you're not getting negative feedback from this environmental conference. Your environment guy is pushing pretty hard and giving his own press conferences. I don't like to complain, but he is giving us a little grief. We are spending a billion dollars on research on global climate change. (✓)

Prime Minister Lubbers: I know your position. I will try to get him under control. (✓)

The President: Thanks for calling. I will tell Brent about your ideas on Lithuania. (✓)

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

THROUGH: ROBERT BLACKWILL *RB*FROM: ADRIAN BASORA *AAB*SUBJECT: Presidential Meeting Requests by Laurent Fabius
and Felix Pons

Laurent Fabius, former French Prime Minister and currently President of the National Assembly, will be in Washington April 30 and May 1 at the invitation of Speaker Foley. He has requested a meeting with the President, and Ambassador Andreani has been pushing the request.

Felix Pons, President of the Spanish Parliament has made a similar request, and both the Spanish Charge in Washington and Foreign Minister Fernandez Ordonez in Madrid have made strong demarches in favor of such a meeting.

In both cases, the Embassies have been told that the President does not normally receive visiting legislators. In the case of Fabius, however, Andreani has argued that he should nevertheless be received because he is a former Prime Minister, and is Mitterrand's favorite to succeed him. The Spanish argue that Pons is the number three person in Spain, after the King and the Prime Minister, and that both the King and the Prime Minister met with Speaker O'Neill when he visited Spain in 1985.

In our view, there is no compelling need to further burden the President's schedule, although one could argue the merits of a photo opportunity. We would recommend instead that the Vice President be asked if he would be willing to see Pons and Fabius.

Ginny Dampley concurs.

RECOMMENDATION:

That you concur in our asking the Vice President's office if he would be willing to receive Pons and Fabius.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

Thank you for your letter of February 26, 1990 to Secretary Baker in which you enclose copy of H. Con. Res. 257 expressing the sense of the Congress concerning the February 24, 1990 elections in Lithuania.

As you know, on March 11 the White House issued a formal statement in support of the process of self-determination now underway in Lithuania and linked it to our longstanding Baltic policy. The statement laid out our general approach to what is a unique and quickly developing process in the Baltic States. It indicates our desire for a peaceful, negotiated solution to the injustices which are the legacy of Stalin's foreign policy.

We are reviewing the best means of keeping in touch with officials elected through an expression of the Lithuania popular will. We are also in regular contact with the Baltic diplomats representing the last free governments of Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania.

Our policy toward the Baltic States is firm and unequivocal and we have stated repeatedly our views on this matter both privately and publicly. Please let me assure you that the United States recognizes Lithuanian statehood and we have for nearly 70 years. We strongly support the Baltic people's choice to pursue a peaceful path toward restoration of their independence.

The Office of Management and Budget advises that from the standpoint of the Administration's program there is no objection to the submission of this report.

Sincerely,

Janet G. Mullins

Dear General Scowcroft:

As an item that might possibly be of use to President Bush in consultation with Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and other Canadian officials, I enclose a study I have just done (for a book to be published in Finland) on Open Skies and the possibility of an expansion of civil aviation across the Arctic. The Abstract at the beginning provides a summary.

This might be, I suggest, an "oblique" approach to loosening up the Soviet resistance of Open Skies overflights--to hold forth the prospect of commercial benefits from a liberalization of the northern hemisphere transportation and communication environment. One could even refer to Gorbachev's Murmansk speech of 1987 as a validation of such an approach.

I should mention that I already have shared this text with pertinent officials in the State, Transportation, and Defense Departments, and also some private airlines (American, Northwest, Pan Am, United, Alaska Airlines, et al.). I have also shared it with the Canadian government (e.g., John Noble, the head of the Canadian delegation to the Open Skies conference in Ottawa) and with Air Canada and Canadian Airlines International. This is, in part, because I serve as Counselor on Canadian Affairs at the Harvard Center for International Affairs, where I have been conducting a seminar this year on U.S. and Canadian foreign policies.

If the ideas I have outlined prove useful, I would be most gratified. They easily could be incorporated into a presidential speech, or a Bush-Mulroney communiqué, and they would lend impetus to the Open Skies initiative.

With my respects,

Yours sincerely,

Alan K. Henrikson

Dear Mr. President,

Throughout my life, I have encouraged citizens to build cultural bridges between the United States and Soviet Union. To this end, following on the success of Malta and the planned June 1990 summit with President Gorbachev, it would appear to be a most propitious time for ordinary American and Soviet citizens to engage in an exchange of ideas with you and President Gorbachev in a public forum.

Specifically, I propose a satellite broadcast between you, President Gorbachev, and an audience of American and Soviet citizens. This could be achieved through a number of formats including, for example, presentations by you and President Gorbachev to a joint American-Soviet audience in a setting such as the next Chautauqua conference in the USSR. Armand Hammer Productions has been privately developing ideas for this President's Exchange for some time and would enlist the participation of prominent, mutually agreed upon correspondents as moderators for the international broadcast.

I believe such an historic event would contribute significantly towards furthering understanding and cooperation between our two countries. It is for this reason that I am approaching you and President Gorbachev on this important matter simultaneously. Of course, Armand Hammer Productions would cooperate fully with the White House and Kremlin on the planning and execution of this project, and no public announcement would be made before both you and President Gorbachev would deem it appropriate.

I very much look forward to your response to my proposal.

With warmest regards.

Respectfully,

Armand Hammer

Dear Brent,

I had a nice visit to Washington and I am sorry I missed seeing you. My consultations were much more meaningful to me after 5 months in Finland than before my departure.

After exploring several options with the State Department relative to a visit of Finland's President, Mauno Koivisto, to Washington, I determined that it would be advantageous to the United States to arrange such a visit in late 1990 or early 1991, and in any event prior to the opening of the 1992 CSCE Conference, to be in Helsinki.

Considering the personal friendship of Presidents Bush and Koivisto I do not know whether President Bush would want a more formal visit, a working visit or perhaps a weekend together. Certainly any of these meetings would be appropriate.

I am exploring possible ways that President Koivisto might be in the United States for a reason unrelated to seeing our President. In such a case an informal meeting could be in order.

I will appreciate your letting me know if President Bush has any interest in such a visit. Many thanks.

MEMORANDUM FOR ROBERT GATES

THROUGH: ROBERT D. BLACKWILL MB
FROM: MARY KAY STULTS ms
SUBJECT: Invitation to President Gorbachev to Visit
Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge

Roger Porter has forwarded to General Scowcroft a copy of an invitation to President Gorbachev (Tab II) extended by Robert Miller, President and CEO of the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. In his letter Miller praised Gorbachev for his leadership in perestroika and glasnost and suggested that because Valley Forge is a symbol of U.S. freedom it would be a very appropriate visit while he is here for the US-Soviet Summit. The Foundation is an educational institution directed toward youth and has been sponsored and visited by Presidents Eisenhower, Nixon, Ford and Reagan.

No response is necessary.

Dear Roger:

Enclosed is a copy of the letter I just sent to President Gorbachev inviting him to visit Freedoms Foundation when he is in the United States.

Bill Verity, a new member of our Board of Directors, suggested this and, in fact, contacted the Soviet ambassador with the idea. The letter is a follow up to a phone call we just received from the First Secretary of the Soviet Embassy, Boris Malakhov, saying that there was interest in this invitation and asking that I put it in writing.

Roger, I hate to bother you, but I feel that appropriate people in the White House should be aware of this invitation, since President Bush is our Honorary Chairman. Since I have no direct contact with the National Security Council, or with Secretary Baker's office, I would very much appreciate your seeing that the proper people are apprised of this situation so that it does not come as a surprise to President Bush and his foreign policy staff.

With best personal regards.

Most cordially,

Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge is a national symbol to the American people of our 200 year experiment in freedom. It was here, on this very site where our headquarters stands, where General George Washington and 11,000 valiant soldiers won our independence from Great Britain even though no battles were fought here. One historian refers to Valley Forge as "the crucible of victory" and indeed it was. It was here that the untrained, ill-clothed and ill-fed soldiers developed their inner resources and strength during the terrible winter of 1777- to go on and eventually win the war for independence.

Freedoms Foundation is an educational institution whose sole purpose is to bring the message of our heritage, our Constitutional form of government, and responsible citizenship to the young people of this nation. We do this through a multitude of educational programs, both on our 105-acre campus and on off-campus programs throughout the nation.

When you are in the United States, we would welcome a visit from you to Valley Forge. We would like to host a luncheon or a reception depending on your time schedule, in your honor, to which we would invite some of this foundation's leaders, as well as leading citizens from the Delaware Valley. A visit from you to this campus would, I am sure, be well received by the American people.

President Mikhail Gorbachev

General Dwight Eisenhower was Chairman of this institution from its inception in 1949 until his death in 1969. He was on the campus many times, chairing meetings, dedicating buildings and, in general, helping in the direction of the foundation's early growth. President Nixon visited here when he was Vice President. President Ford, immediately after he left the White House, dedicated a visitors center. President Reagan served as our Honorary Chairman for the eight years he occupied the White House and President Bush now serves in that capacity.

We are located 25 miles west of Philadelphia. The campus has a helipad and is only about 45 minutes by helicopter from Washington.

We would be pleased to furnish you with any information you might need as you consider this invitation.

Respectfully yours,

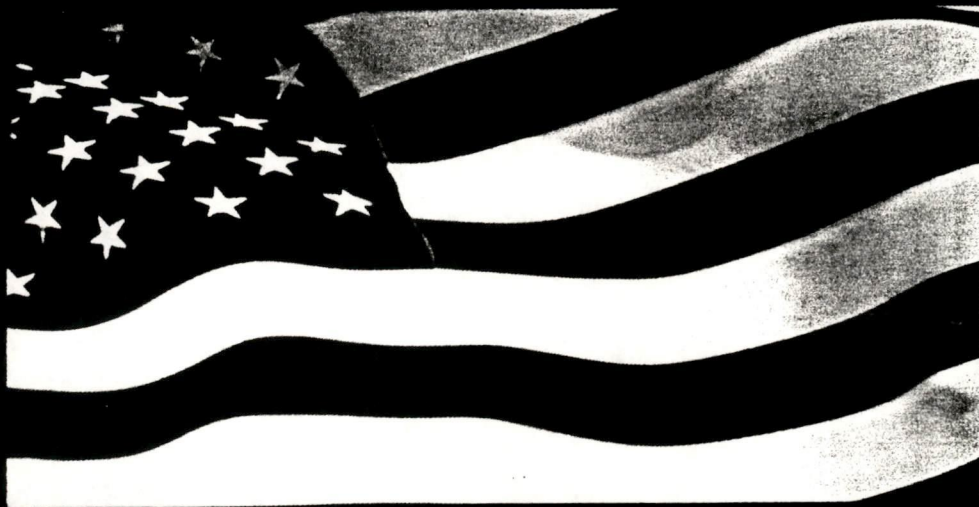

Robert W. Miller

PRESS STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT FOR KEY LARGO

It has been a great pleasure having President Mitterrand as my guest at Key Largo, after his splendid tropical hospitality at St. Martin in December. Our meetings, starting last May at Kennebunkport, have been invaluable in ensuring close French-American cooperation during this period of historic change in Europe.

President Mitterrand and I spent most of our time today discussing the profound and encouraging transformation of Europe. We reviewed the enormous advances towards democracy and economic reform which have occurred in Eastern Europe since we met in Paris in July. Our call at the Summit of the Arch in Paris for concerted Western action to support these reforms has been realized; the "Group of 24" that resulted from that call has done excellent work in raising and coordinating billions of dollars to assist the reform process. One concrete example of this rapid and effective response is the creation, with strong French leadership, of a European Bank for Reconstruction and Development, which we agreed to in Paris earlier this month.

In addition to the economic and political reforms moving forward in Eastern Europe, we discussed the welcome prospect of a unified Germany. This fulfillment of the natural aspiration of the German people is a goal which both France and the U.S. have supported for over two generations.

President Mitterrand and I both believe that a united Germany should remain a full member of NATO as called for by Chancellor Kohl. All of our Allies and several Eastern European countries share this view. We feel that full German membership in NATO is in the fundamental interest of all European states.

In this context we also look forward to the continuation of the Two Plus Four talks on the external aspects of the establishment of German unity. These talks will focus on bringing to an end the special Four Power rights and responsibilities for Berlin and Germany as a whole. We agreed that a united Germany should have full control over all of its territory without any new discriminatory constraints on German sovereignty.

In discussing the evolution of European security, the French President and I spoke about the key role the North Atlantic Alliance has played in making possible the positive changes of the past year. The Alliance must remain vigorous in this critical period of transition. I told President Mitterrand that the U.S. will retain militarily significant nuclear and conventional forces in Western Europe as long as our Allies desire our presence as part of a common security effort, and he indicated strong French support for this continued U.S. presence.

President Mitterrand and I also discussed the progress of the European Community towards increased integration, and I repeated the unequivocal support for European unity that I had expressed last May when we were together at Boston University. The EC's stability, prosperity and close political cooperation have been beacons for Eastern Europe. The French President and I agreed that, as the EC evolves, closer U.S.-EC linkages and more effective channels for dialogue will be required.

We both believe that, as the division of Europe gives way to a new era of reconciliation, we must strengthen the CSCE process in ways that can enhance mutual confidence and peaceful cooperation in Europe. We are hopeful that a CSCE Summit can be held later this year in association with signature of a CFE treaty.

We also had a thorough exchange about the situation in the Soviet Union and Lithuania. We share a conviction that this issue must be dealt with through dialogue, so that the Lithuanian people's right to self-determination can be realized. We are deeply disturbed by recent Soviet statements and activities regarding Lithuania, which will clearly not improve the atmosphere. I told President Mitterrand that the U.S. is considering appropriate measures to be taken in the light of Soviet actions.

Mr. President

Dear Julian:

Thank you for your letter concerning the upcoming ceremonies in Plzen marking the 45th anniversary of the U.S. liberation of Western Bohemia. It is a welcome sign of the times that we can now celebrate with, rather than against, the Czechoslovak Government.

Although we plan no official delegation, I understand our Embassy in Prague will be arranging some events in connection with the ceremony. I hope you can join in the commemoration, which will also give you a chance to see the new Czechoslovakia.

Thank you also for sending the photographs, which I am returning.

The Honorable
General Brent Scowcroft
National Security Council Advisor
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Brent:

It is my understanding that the Czechoslovak officials informed Jim Baker during his recent visit to Prague that celebration ceremonies will be held in Plzen on May 6, 1990, to mark the 45th anniversary of the liberation of Western Bohemia by U.S. Armed Forces during WWII.

This is long overdue and a welcome development toward removing a long-festering irritant in relations with the United States.

You might recall my telling you of the wreathlaying ceremonies I conducted with Embassy personnel at sites in Bohemia liberation by the 1st and 2nd Infantry Divisions and the 412th Armored Division always at the strong objection of the Communist officials. Some photos which I showed you are enclosed.

I would like to suggest that an official U.S. mission or delegation go to Plzen to attend and participate in this historic event provided an invitation could be obtained from the Czechoslovak Government.

Naturally, as former U.S. Ambassador to that country and a member of the Armed Forces during WWII, I would be keenly interested in attending if invited. In fact, this might be an event that would interest you.

I have learned that General Patton's son Major General George Patton, Jr., is retired and lives in South Hamilton, Maine. He, too, might be a likely person to be a part of such a delegation.

Brent, I realize that you have a host of more higher priority matters to attend to, but I wanted to bring this historic event to your attention for consideration.

With all good wishes for continued success with the super service you are providing the President and the nation.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Jay", written over the printed name.
