MEMORANDUM OF TELEPHONE CONVERSATION

SUBJECT: Telcon with Helmut Kohl, Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany (U)

PARTICIPANTS: The President
Helmut Kohl, Chancellor
Notetaker: Stephen Benko, NSC Staff

DATE, TIME August 22, 1990, 8:15 - 8:36am
AND PLACE: Kennebunkport, Maine

The President: Helmut, how are you, my friend? (U)

Chancellor Kohl: I am fine. How are you? (U)

The President: We're still here in Kennebunkport. Glad to hear from you. (U)

Chancellor Kohl: I just want to find out how you see the issues. You know we had the WEU meeting, after the EC meeting, on cooperation. I coordinated with Foreign Minister Genscher for full support of the U.S. position. I wanted to hear your thoughts after you heard about the results of those two bodies. (U)

There was something else I wanted to raise. As you know, at the time of the 1948 constitution, under the urging of the occupation forces in Germany, we accepted restrictions on military operations for Germany outside of its borders. (U)

The President: Yes. (U)

Chancellor Kohl: And now we are under pressure from the Socialists to defend the Constitution. We are trying to change the Constitution, but it won't happen very quickly. I hope that we can do it before the UN Resolution. It is very important that solidarity be a two-way street. The U.S. has always helped us, so we want to be able to help in any way we can. (U)

The President: Helmut, that's fine. I understand your position and respect it. I have followed the WEU and the internal German discussions. We respect your position and are grateful for the solidarity you were able to project. I felt the WEU statement was very helpful. I also understand the constraints you face on out-of-area commitments and appreciate your efforts to modify them. We view your sending forces to the eastern Mediterranean as very helpful to substitute for those deployed to the Gulf.

If you're asking for my viewpoints, Helmut, Turkey has been very steadfast. Ozal has been strong. So we need to consider financial assistance to Turkey. Same is true of Egypt. Mubarak is acting very well in all of this. Jordan is also in a squeeze. King Hussein says they are supporting the sanctions, but the jury is still out on that in my view. If they all cooperate fully, that's an area where we should give financial assistance. (S)

On the rest of the situation, we're determined to enforce the naval blockade, the interdiction. The Yemenis permitted one ship to go by. They said at the UN it would not unload. There are now three other ships on the way to Yemen which contravene the UN sanctions. (S)

Whether or not we get the collective action at the UN we want, these ships should not be allowed to get through. For your information, the captain of the first ship said at first that he was only carrying water as ballast. But later he admitted he was carrying oil. (S)

On the broader front, we continue to move forces to Saudi Arabia, and so do other powers. At this time, I believe it would be exceedingly reckless for Saddam Husayn to attack Saudi Arabia.

(S)

Chancellor Kohl: I don't think he will. (S)

The President: I kind of agree with you on that. I'm also very concerned about the foreign individuals there. (U)

Chancellor Kohl: Yes, quite so. (U)

The President: There is no basis for their position to call them guests. His actions make them hostages. But using human beings as human shields is unacceptable by any norms of human law. (U)

Another comment on the broad front: Saddam Husayn is trying to make this the world against the U.S. The world should make the case this is the civilized world against Saddam Husayn, Arab and non-Arab. (S)

Chancellor Kohl: I fully agree. I will say so. George, thanks very much for these thoughts. And if we can do anything more under the existing Constitution, we will be very happy to do so. Please phone me day or night. This is a big challenge, and failure has dire consequences. Many parts of the world are watching and will know what outrages they can commit. (U)

The President: I appreciate it. Any public statements you can make would be helpful in case we have to interdict. (S)

~~SECRET~~

~~SECRET~~

Chancellor Kohl: I will make a special point of it in Parliament. (U)

The President: I don't want to do anything reckless. But the status quo is unacceptable. I'm increasingly worried, but still hope the sanctions work. (✓)

Chancellor Kohl: Thanks very much, George. There is another issue I want to raise with you which is gaining momentum in the elections. This concerns low-flying aircraft. This is a very important domestic issue. Stoltenberg has had good conversations with Cheney. There is one point I want to discuss. That is the altitude of 200-300 meters. It ought to be our aim to restrict aircraft to a figure above 300 meters. This is a clearly important and central matter to Germany. It is important and I would like to request you to request your people to help reach a satisfactory result. (✓)

The President: Helmut, in about three hours Cheney and General Colin Powell will be here in Kennebunkport. I know Cheney and Stoltenberg have been in regular contact on this subject and we have already taken several steps to address the problem. I am acutely aware of the politics involved and will remind Cheney of them. (✓)

Chancellor Kohl: This is very important to me personally. Despite many things going on, this is the most important of many domestic issues. If you could be of any help, it would be helpful. (✓)

The President: If it's important to you, I'll tell Cheney to be responsive. Let's leave it at that. (✓)

Chancellor Kohl: Many thanks. (U)

The President: We'll be in touch. Barbara and I give our best to you and Hannelore. (U)

REQUEST: Presidential Opening Address at CSCE
Ministerial in New York, October 1

PURPOSE: Highlight U.S. leadership in shaping CSCE's role in Europe's new architecture.

BACKGROUND: The CSCE's New York meeting, its first in the U.S., will be a key benchmark on the road to the CSCE Summit. Shaping the CSCE process is a key ingredient of our European policy, and opening remarks by the President, who will be in New York for the UNGA, will underscore our support.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

THROUGH: ADRIAN A. BASORA AAB
FROM: STEPHEN E. BENKO SEB
SUBJECT: Presidential Address at CSCE Ministerial October 1

The State Department has recommended that the President give opening remarks at the CSCE Ministerial in New York October 1. It is traditional for a representative of the host country to deliver brief opening remarks at CSCE ministerial meetings. Margaret Thatcher, Francois Mitterrand, and Helmut Kohl opened the last three such CSCE meetings. Given the importance we are placing on the CSCE process in the construction of a new European architecture, and particularly as we prepare for the November CSCE Summit, we strongly support State's recommendation. State has also informed us that Jim Baker may speak (or has already spoken) to the President directly about it.

The President will be in New York for the UNGA, and Nancy Bearg Dyke has included his participation at the CSCE opening in her schedule of events. A Schedule Proposal is at Tab I.

Philip Zelikow ✓ and Nancy Bearg MBD Dyke concur.

RECOMMENDATION:

That you approve the Schedule Proposal at Tab I.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT
THE WHITE HOUSE

Subject: Presidential Appearance at New York CSCE Ministerial

To underscore the U.S. commitment to the CSCE process as a component of Europe's new architecture, the Secretary has invited his 34 CSCE counterparts to New York to attend a CSCE ministerial meeting October 1-2. This meeting, the first CSCE event ever held in the U.S., is a key benchmark on the road to the CSCE Summit.

It is CSCE practice for a representative of the host country to deliver brief welcoming remarks at such meetings. Prime Minister Thatcher, for example, addressed the opening of the London Information Forum in April 1989, President Mitterrand did so at the Paris human rights meeting in June of last year and Chancellor Kohl welcomed delegates to the Bonn CSCE economic conference in April of this year.

In line with the importance we attach to CSCE and to this ministerial, and given the President's plans to be in New York October 1, we recommend strongly that he open the ministerial on behalf of the United States. The ministerial is notionally scheduled to begin at 2:00 p.m., with host country opening remarks provisionally set for 2:20 p.m. Remarks by the President could underscore the importance we attach to CSCE and give further impetus to our vision of what a CSCE Summit should achieve. The President's participation will highlight U.S. leadership in making CSCE a central part of Europe's new architecture.

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

THROUGH: ADRIAN A. BASORA AAB
FROM: STEPHEN E. BENKO SEB
SUBJECT: Response to Congressman Lantos re: Albania

At Tab I is a response from you to Congressman Lantos, who has written the President urging full establishment of diplomatic relations with Albania. Lantos has just completed a trip to Albania, where he met with President Alia.

State has begun exploratory discussions with Albania. Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Curtis Kamman met the Albanian UN perm rep May 1 in New York; a second meeting at a similar level took place August 23. State has shown the Albanian representative an example of a Memorandum of Understanding, similar to that reached with Mongolia, reestablishing diplomatic relations. The Albanian official has told State that Albania would like to proceed with discussions to pursue the MOU. A draft MOU could be ready for consideration at senior policy levels within a few weeks.

The letter to Lantos thanks him for his report, and notes that State has begun discussions with the Albanians.

Virginia Bl Lampley concurs.

RECOMMENDATION:

That you sign the letter to Lantos at Tab I.

Dear Congressman Lantos:

Thank you for your letter and trip report to the President concerning Albania. I fully agree with your views on the importance of establishing relations at some point with Albania.

Your report provides information at a time when we are just beginning to explore relations with the Government of Albania. As you know, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European and Canadian Affairs Curtis Kamman met with the Albanian UN Permanent Representative in May in New York, and a similar meeting took place August 23 at the State Department. These discussions are of an exploratory nature, but we are hopeful for progress. As you note, though, human rights concerns must remain a high priority, and we will want to move cautiously.

Thank you again for writing. You are an important source of information for us in this area, and we would appreciate any further information you may wish to share with us.

Sincerely,

Brent Scowcroft

Dear Congressman Lantos:

Thank you for your recent letter to the President reporting on your trip to Albania and providing a summary of the conversation you had with President Ramiz Alia.

The President appreciates being apprised of the details of your trip. I have taken the liberty of sharing your comments with the President's foreign policy advisors so that they, too, are aware of your observations and recommendation that the United States should establish full diplomatic relations with Albania.

Thank you again for your interest in writing.

With best regards,

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. President:

As you know I recently returned from a visit to Albania, where I met with a wide range of local and central officials, students, and average citizens of the country. During our visit I spent some two hours meeting with Ramiz Alia, who has been the President of Albania since 1985. This visit was the first by a United States government official to Albania since 1946.

During the meeting with President Alia, we discussed a broad range of issues involving Albania's international policies. He expressed great interest in establishing diplomatic relations with the United States and in increasing Albania's international involvements. For your information, I am enclosing a more detailed summary of our conversation with President Alia.

I strongly urge you to proceed with the full establishment of diplomatic relations with Albania. The presence of American diplomats in Tirana will provide our country with important first-hand information about developments in this hitherto isolated country, and it will give our government the opportunity to communicate directly and unequivocally to the Albanian government regarding our interests, views, and concerns.

The Honorable George Bush

The establishment of diplomatic relations is a normal and necessary step to facilitate communication among sovereign states. It is not a reward for good behavior. While all of us agree that Albania should take significant steps to improve its human rights record and to assure full democratic freedoms to all its citizens, refusing to establish diplomatic relations would be inappropriate and counterproductive. This has been our traditional diplomatic practice -- we have maintained diplomatic relations with China and the Soviet Union despite our public and private criticism of their human rights record.

Mr. President, in view of the pace of fundamental changes taking place in Albania, it is most important that we establish diplomatic links -- and that we do so as quickly as possible. If I can provide you or others in the Executive Branch with additional information on these issues, please let me know.

Cordially,
