Dear Mr. President:

On behalf of the International Institute for Strategic Studies, I would like to extend an invitation to you to deliver the welcoming address to the 32nd Annual Conference of the International Institute for ~~Strategic Studies~~, which will be held from September 5th to the 9th, 1990, at The Homestead in Hot Springs, Virginia.

You are, I am sure, familiar with the IISS, which is widely recognized as the foremost institute dealing with issues of international security and strategy and which has a membership of some 3,000 policymakers, analysts and scholars from more than 70 countries, including 1,200 in the United States. You may recall that you addressed an audience at the IISS headquarters in London in February, 1983, during your successful diplomatic tour of NATO countries to secure acceptance of the INF deployment.

The 1990 IISS Conference will bring together 350 strategic experts from every corner of the globe to discuss and debate America's role in a changing world order. Not since the immediate post-World War II period 40 years ago has the United States faced such dramatic challenges in defining its world role and in helping to shape a world order. The IISS Conference would offer an ideal forum for you to set out your views on the strategic opportunities and dangers that lie ahead as the global scene is transformed and the United States and its Allies reassess their priorities. The international diversity of the Conference participants and their roles as decision makers and opinion makers would insure the widest possible dissemination of your message.

The President

November 17, 1989

We would hope that you could speak at the opening plenary session of the Conference on the morning of Thursday, September 6th and, if it suits your schedule, join the Council of the IISS and selected guests at lunch at The Homestead.

My colleagues on the Council of the IISS and I trust that you will find it possible to participate in what will be a major event on the 1990 agenda of the international strategic and foreign affairs community.

With warm regards, I am

Sincerely,

Dear Joe:

Thank you for your letter regarding the possibility of the President delivering welcoming remarks at IISS's Conference at The Homestead in September and drawing my attention to the change in time for the opening session.

The IISS Conference will be a very important one and I hope that the President will be able to make opening remarks. I will recommend to the President that he accept your proposal.

I look forward to hearing from you again. And give my best to Bob Ellsworth.

Sincerely,

Many thanks for the lunch

MEMORANDUM FOR BRENT SCOWCROFT

THROUGH: ROBERT D. BLACKWILL FROM: PHILIP D. ZELIKOW SUBJECT: Request for the President to Address the International Institute for Strategic Studies, has

At Tab I is a letter from you responding to Joseph Fromm, the Chairman of the US Committee of the IISS, who has requested that the President deliver welcoming remarks at the group's annual conference. The letter is old (Dec 5), but we have been talking to Fromm about his proposal. This year's conference is at The Homestead in Hot Springs, Virginia. Fromm would prefer that the President speak at the opening of the conference at 2:00pm on September 6, but would accommodate his schedule for an appearance any time during the three-day agenda.

This event would present an opportunity for the President to deliver a major foreign policy address to a distinguished international group. We have checked with White House scheduling and the President's calendar is open on those dates. Labor Day is September 3 and he should be back from Kennebunkport. The letter at Tab I agrees the IISS conference is an appropriate event for the President and indicates that you will recommend that the President deliver an address to the group.

RECOMMENDATION:

That you sign the letter at Tab I to Joseph Fromm.

Dear Brent:

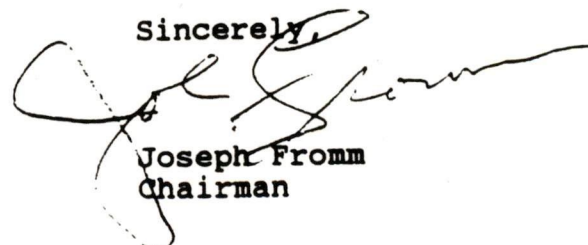

I am writing with respect to the letter that Bob Ellsworth and I left with you on November 17 inviting President Bush to deliver the welcoming address at the 1990 Annual Conference of the International Institute for Strategic Studies at The Homestead in Hot Springs, Virginia. I have just been informed that the time of the opening session on September 6--the date we proposed for the President's address--has been set for 2 p.m. rather than 9 a.m. as stated in our letter. The later hour will enable our numerous overseas participants to recover from jet lag and will allow time for a pre-Conference meeting of the IISS Council.

Would you please adjust our letter to invite the President to speak at 2 p.m. on Thursday, September 6th. Let me add that the Conference continues to midday Sunday, September 9th, and, if scheduling problems prove difficult on September 6th, we would be glad to adjust the agenda to have the President speak on Friday or Saturday.

Again, Brent, Bob Ellsworth and I want you to know how much we appreciate your help in extending this invitation to President Bush. In light of the historic changes transforming the international scene, we think you will agree that the IISS Conference will be an event of exceptional importance and will offer a unique forum for the President to address the challenges facing the nation in shaping its role in a new world order.

With warm personal regards,

Sincerely,
